Front-End Frameworks Statistics

The decision for which framework to use should not be based on their popularity but rather on which one suits your development needs best. GRID SYSTEM getbootstrap.com/docs/4.1/examples/grid/

Bootstrap grid examples

Basic grid layouts to get you familiar with building within the Bootstrap grid system.

Five grid tiers

There are five tiers to the Bootstrap grid system, one for each range of devices we support. Each tier starts at a minimum viewport size and automatically applies to the larger devices unless overridden.

.col-4	.col-4	.col-4
.col-sm-4	.col-sm-4	.col-sm-4
.col-md-4	.col-md-4	.col-md-4
.col-lg-4	.col-lg-4	.col-lg-4
.col-xl-4	.col-xl-4	.col-xl-4

Three equal columns

Get three equal-width columns starting at desktops and scaling to large desktops. On mobile devices, tablets and below, the columns will automatically stack.

.col-md-4	.col-md-4	.col-md-4
-----------	-----------	-----------

Three unequal columns

Get three columns starting at desktops and scaling to large desktops of various widths. Remember, grid columns should add up to twelve for a single horizontal block. More than that, and columns start stacking no matter the viewport.

.col-md-3	.col-md-6	.col-md-3
-----------	-----------	-----------

Two columns

Introduction

Take a look at this section to quickly understand how the grid works!

12 Columns

Our standard grid has 12 columns. No matter the size of the browser, each of these columns will always have an equal width.

To get a feel of how the grid is used in HTML, take a look at the code below which will produce a similar result to the one above.

language-markup

  1
  2
  3
  4
  5
  6
  7
  8
  9
  10
  11
  12

Note: For now, just know that the `s1` stands for small-1 which in plain English means "1 column on small screens".

Extended Navbar with Tabs

To add extended components to the navbar, add the class `nav-extended` to the outer nav tag. This will allow your navbar height to be variable. Then you can just include a tabs component inside the nav-wrapper.

The tabs structure consists of an unordered list of tabs that have hashes corresponding to tab ids. Then when you click on each tab, only the container with the corresponding tab id will become visible. You can add the class `.disabled` to make a tab inaccessible.
